CHAPTER IV CODE OF DISCIPLINE

A. CONDUCT IN THE SCHOOL

Every student must value and exercise self discipline to earn due respect for his own person. He is called upon to respect his fellow students, personnel, faculty members, and administrators.

To know how to conduct himself in the campus, he should secure a copy of the SLU Student Handbook and be knowledgeable of its contents. This handbook should therefore be used for his constant reference and guidance.

He should conduct himself and present himself in a decent manner, abiding by the generally accepted norms of good behavior at all times. He should observe courtesy and decorum in dealing with fellow students, personnel, faculty members and administrators.

He shall be responsible to know, understand and comply with the contents of the memoranda, circulars, announcements, letters, notices, directives and the like affecting him, as may be regularly posted and/or disseminated by the university authorities.

Lastly, every student shall observe the laws of the land, the rules and regulations of the university as provided herein and as may necessarily be promulgated from time to time, and the standards of good society.

6. to inhibit himself from pushing, trafficking, administering, using or possessing regulated or prohibited drugs and its derivatives since Saint Louis University does not condone activities of like nature.

Although the University cannot be held responsible for the conduct of its students outside the school premises, bad conduct of any of its students outside the school campus can be a cause for disciplinary action.

B. CONDUCT OUTSIDE THE SCHOOL

Every student is always identified with the university to which he belongs. It is his responsibility to help maintain the good image of the university by conducting himself in a manner befitting a Catholic student. Consequently, he should be aware at all times that his behavior is reflective of the training he gets in the university. While outside the campus he should observe generally accepted rules of conduct and norms of behavior.

As such he is called upon:

1. to uphold the academic integrity of the university, protecting at all times its name, reputation and ideals.
2. to conduct himself with dignity and honor and to abide by all instructions of the authorities when representing the university in any authorized activity. Likewise, he should conduct himself in the same manner when using the name of the university.
3. to participate in religious, civic, social and like activities/programs, approved by the university.
4. to keep away from establishments of ill-repute such as gambling joints, sauna parlors, drinking places, pot session dens, and other similar places; and to avoid associating with persons of questionable character and conduct.
5. not to use, without prior authority, the name of Saint Louis University in any ticket, invitation, program, announcement or similar printed matters.
