EXPERT ADVICE TO GOVERNMENT

CHED has selected qualified professionals from various fields to become technical panel members. These technical panels of experts from multiple disciplines are formed to serve as advisory and consultative bodies to the Commission. They are key individuals who help formulate relevant policies, promoting and enhancing the productivity of the system and higher education in general.

Dean Mary Grace Lacanaria, Ph.D., of the SLU School of Nursing, was inaugurated as a member of the Commission on Higher Education's (CHED) Technical Panel for Nursing Education on January 25, 2022. (TPNE). The TPNE is a group of experts in nursing entrusted with creating a roadmap for the creation of discipline- and degree-specific programs, as well as reviewing, amending, and updating PSGs in accordance with the general guidelines established by the Commission in its operations. The Commission En Banc must approve the TPNE's proposals as an advisory and recommending body for nursing education. Additionally, as a member of the Technical Panel, the chosen individuals offer technical knowledge to CHED in conceptualizing and establishing pertinent and acceptable strategies, policies, standards, and guidelines.
